What This Document Covers

This manual explains the automated Weekly Email Campaign built for The Utopia Deli. It covers what emails are sent, when they go out, and how to update content.

1. Campaign Overview

Your customers receive 5 branded emails per week keeping them informed about meal prep deadlines, walk-up hours, catering, and special offerings.

Why This Matters

Before this system: inconsistent communication, no reminders, customers forgot deadlines.

After this system: regular touchpoints, higher meal prep orders, better customer retention.

2. Weekly Email Schedule

DAY	SEND TIME	WHAT IT SAYS
Monday	9:00 AM	"We're open today + meal prep closes Wednesday"
Tuesday	9:00 AM	"Planning an event? We cater."
Wednesday	9:00 AM	"Last chance — meal prep closes at noon"
Thursday	9:00 AM	"Pick up your bowls today + we're open"
Friday	9:00 AM	"New week meal prep is live"

What Each Email Includes

- Branded header with Utopia Deli logo
- Hero image of food
- Clear call-to-action button (Order Now, Get Quote, etc.)
- Photos of actual dishes with descriptions
- Your address and hours
- Unsubscribe link (required by law)

3. How It Works

Automatic Process (No Manual Work)

1. n8n (automation platform) sends emails automatically
2. Customer database pulls from Square + website orders
3. Templates generate branded HTML emails
4. Gmail SMTP delivers emails to ~300 customers
5. Logs track what was sent and when

What You Don't Have to Do

- ✗ Manually send emails
- ✗ Build email templates
- ✗ Manage unsubscribes
- ✗ Format images or content

What You Still Control

-  Weekly bowl names and descriptions
-  Special announcements (holidays, events)
-  Catering availability
-  Menu updates

4. Weekly Update Process

Every Week (Takes 5 Minutes)

Step 1: Tell us this week’s 7 bowl names - Example: “Mediterranean Harvest, Thai Peanut Crunch, Eggplant Parm...”

Step 2: Send any new food photos (or we’ll reuse existing)

Step 3: We update the code and activate the campaign

Done. Emails send automatically all week.
